

EXCELLON COMMUNITY PROGRAMS

To advance education in the community, Excellon invests in the nearby education centers and as well as campaigns to promote the importance of education, art, culture, and environmental protection.

During 2020, the company put special effort into Health Campaigns highlighting the health risks of Covid-19. More specifically, we worked with the local authorities to educate people about the most common symptoms, physical distancing, and good hygienic practices to prevent the spread of this disease. Additionally, Excellon made donations to provide hygienic supplies to local children and families affected by COVID-19.

Following are examples of Excellon's activities to support local communities in 2020:

- Organizing first aid conferences in education centers and local authorities' buildings
- Promoting reduce, reuse, and recycle campaigns in schools to teach students about the importance of waste segregation and protecting the environment
- Providing waste containers classified by color to education centers
- Our Health and Safety Department promoted breast cancer awareness campaigns targeting college students and community workers
- Participating in local authorities' health programs, which include: La Semana del Adolescente (Teen Week), Semana preventiva del SIDA (HIV Awareness Week), and Peleando contra el Cancer de mama (Fighting Breast Cancer)
- Sponsoring athletic events, such as soccer tournaments and races, for the local youth communities
